

ACCS POLICY

In connection with its publishing activities, it is the policy of the ACCS to own the copyrights to all copyrightable material in its technical publications, and to the individual contributions contained therein, in order to protect the interests of the ACCS, its authors and their employers, and, at the same time, to facilitate the appropriate re-use of this material by others. The ACCS distributes its technical publications throughout the world and does so by various means such as hard copy or any electronic media. It also abstracts and may translate its publications, and articles contained therein, for inclusion in various compendiums and similar publications, etc. When an article is submitted for publication to the ACCS, the ACCS understands that its acceptance of the article implies that ACCS has the rights to do all of the things it normally does with such an article.

ACCS assumes that material presented at its meetings or submitted to its publications is properly available for general dissemination to the audiences these activities are organized to serve. It is the responsibility of the authors, not the ACCS, to determine whether disclosure of their material requires the prior consent of other parties and, if so, to obtain it.

Furthermore, the ACCS must assume that, if an author uses within his/her article previously published and/or copyrighted material that permission has been obtained for such use and that any required credit lines, copyright notices, etc. are duly noted.

AUTHOR/COMPANY RIGHTS

If you are employed and you prepared your paper as part of your job, the rights to your work rest initially with your employer. In that case, when you sign the copyright transfer form, we assume you are authorized to do so by your employer and that your employer has consented to all the terms and conditions of this form. If not, it should be signed by someone so authorized.

Please note that, although authors are permitted to reuse all or portions of their ACCS-copyrighted material in other works, this does not include granting third party requests for reprinting, republishing or other types of re-use.

ALL THIRD-PARTY REQUESTS MUST BE HANDLED BY THE ACCS. PLEASE DIRECT ALL QUESTIONS ABOUT ACCS COPYRIGHT POLICY OR THIS FORM TO:

The Secretary
Advanced Computing & Communications Society (ACCS)
Gate #2, C.V. Raman Avenue, Indian Institute of Science
Bangalore 560 012, India
Tefax: +91 80 2360 7142

ACCS NO-SHOW POLICY

An author, in offering a paper for presentation at an ACCS meeting or accepting an invitation to present a paper, is expected to be present at the meeting to deliver the paper. ACCS reserves the right to exclude a paper from proceedings of the conference if the paper is not presented at the conference.

In the event that circumstances unknown at the time of submission of a paper preclude its presentation by an author, the technical program chair should be informed on time so that appropriate substitute arrangements can be made.

It is the ACCS policy that "no shows" presentation/papers will be withdrawn from the proceedings of the meeting and the author(s) may be blacklisted for all ACCS technical meetings for a period of two years from the date of failed appearance. ACCS will notify authors prior to, or at time of submission, that their papers may be excluded from proceedings should they fail to appear at the conference.

ACCS discourages withdrawals of papers once submitted and included in the program. The authors are encouraged to get all necessary company and/or government approvals prior to submitting the paper to the conference.