

CDAC-ACCS Foundation Lecture Awards Nomination Norms PDF

The following norms may kindly be kept in view while forwarding nominations:

- The nominee should have made outstanding contributions to the broad areas of Advanced Computing and Communications, which are topics of great interest to both the CDAC and ACS community;
- The nominee should be a person of national/international repute in the above fields and could be from the industry or academia or R&D Labs;
- The Foundation Lecture is expected to cover current research and development trends in the above fields with specific references to the outstanding contributions made by the Awardee;
- Self-nomination is prohibited.

The nominations should be accompanied by a brief resume of the nominee.